In the biographical sketch of Samuel S. Jones that is given on page 1190 in the present volume, it is stated: "In 1867 he formed the firm of Jones & Campman, merchant tailors, which continued until 1875, and thereafter, for four years, he was a member of the firm of Jones & Russell." The Russell in question is James A. Russell, as DWP and SRP learned on March 17, 1979 while engaged in genealogical research in the newspaper reading room of the Carbondale Public Library. On that date, DWP and SRP discovered the advertisement that is reproduced below in the Saturday Morning, March 23, 1878 issue of The Carbondale Advance (Vol. XXI, Number 43, p. 3). A photograph of that advertisement was taken by DWP. It is from a print of that photographic negative that the xerographic copy of the advertisement that is reproduced below was made.
